www.dealii.org

Planning for the future:

How to submit patches

Github

Github is a hosting service:

- For open source projects
- For other projects (for $)

- Stores the central repository of projects
- Stores individual people's “forks”

- Facilitates the movement of patches (=sets of commits) between repositories

Located at http://www.github.com/

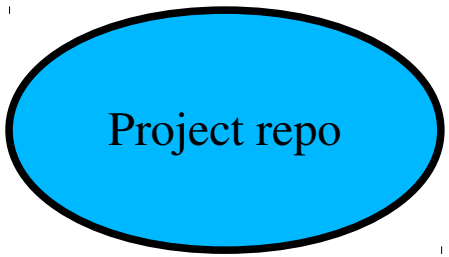
Github

Typical workflow: Forking, cloning, checking out

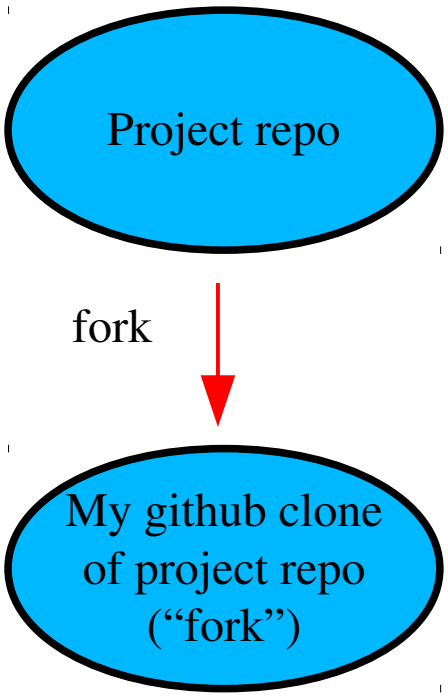


github.com

local filesystem

Github

Typical workflow: Forking, cloning, checking out

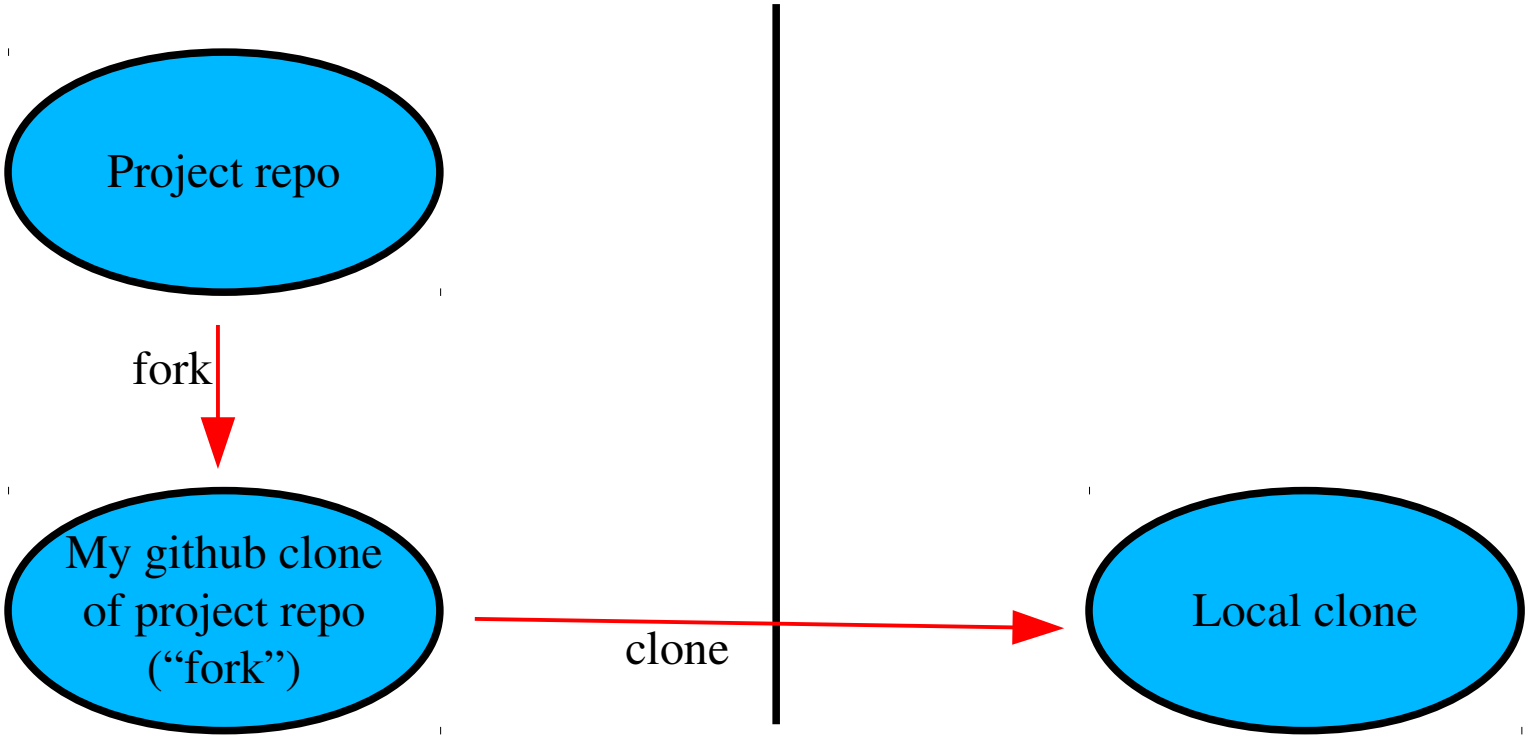


github.com

local filesystem

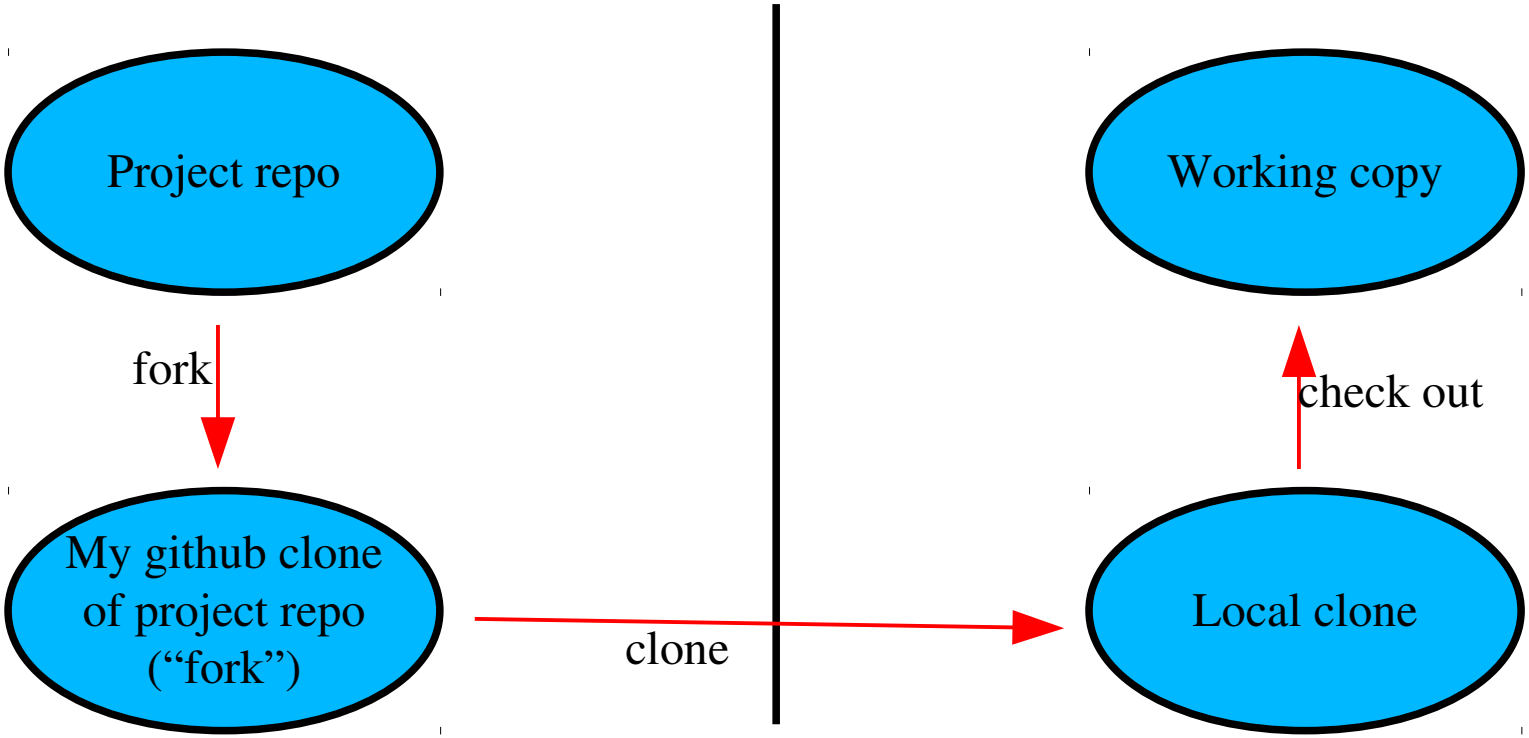
Github

Typical workflow: Forking, cloning, checking out



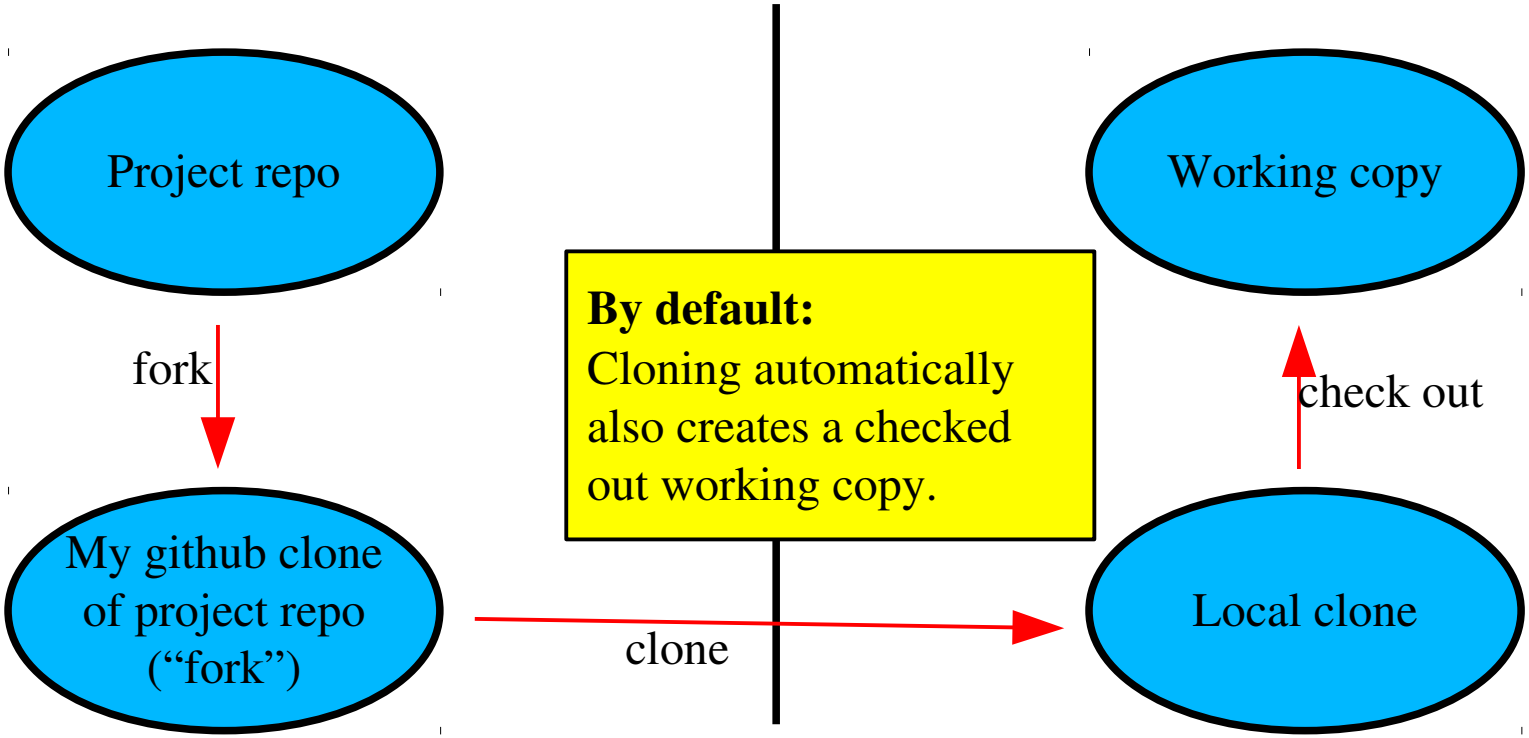
Github

Typical workflow: Forking, cloning, checking out



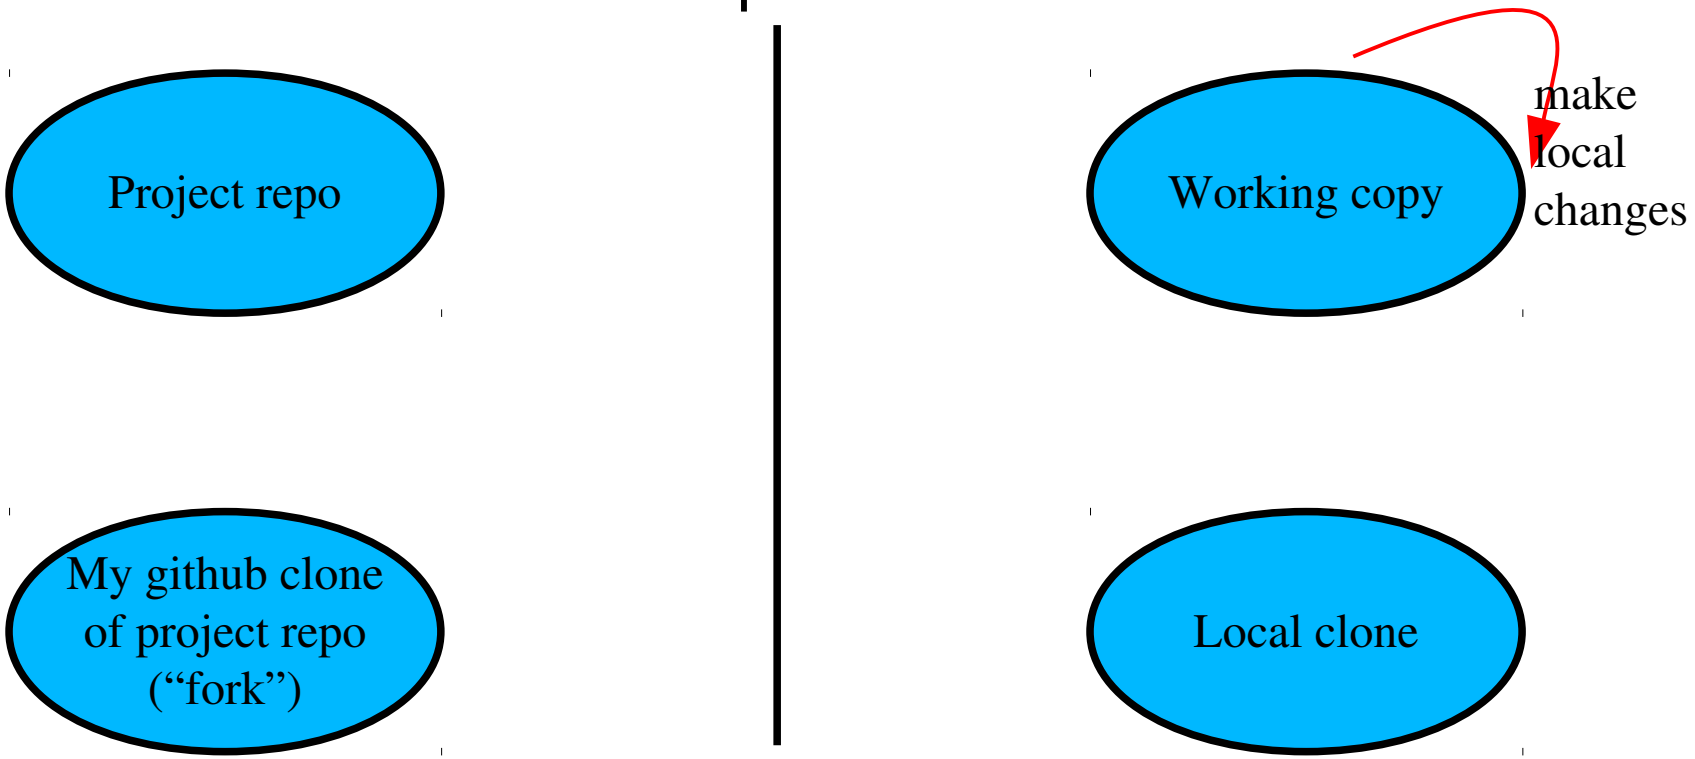
Github

Typical workflow: Forking, cloning, checking out



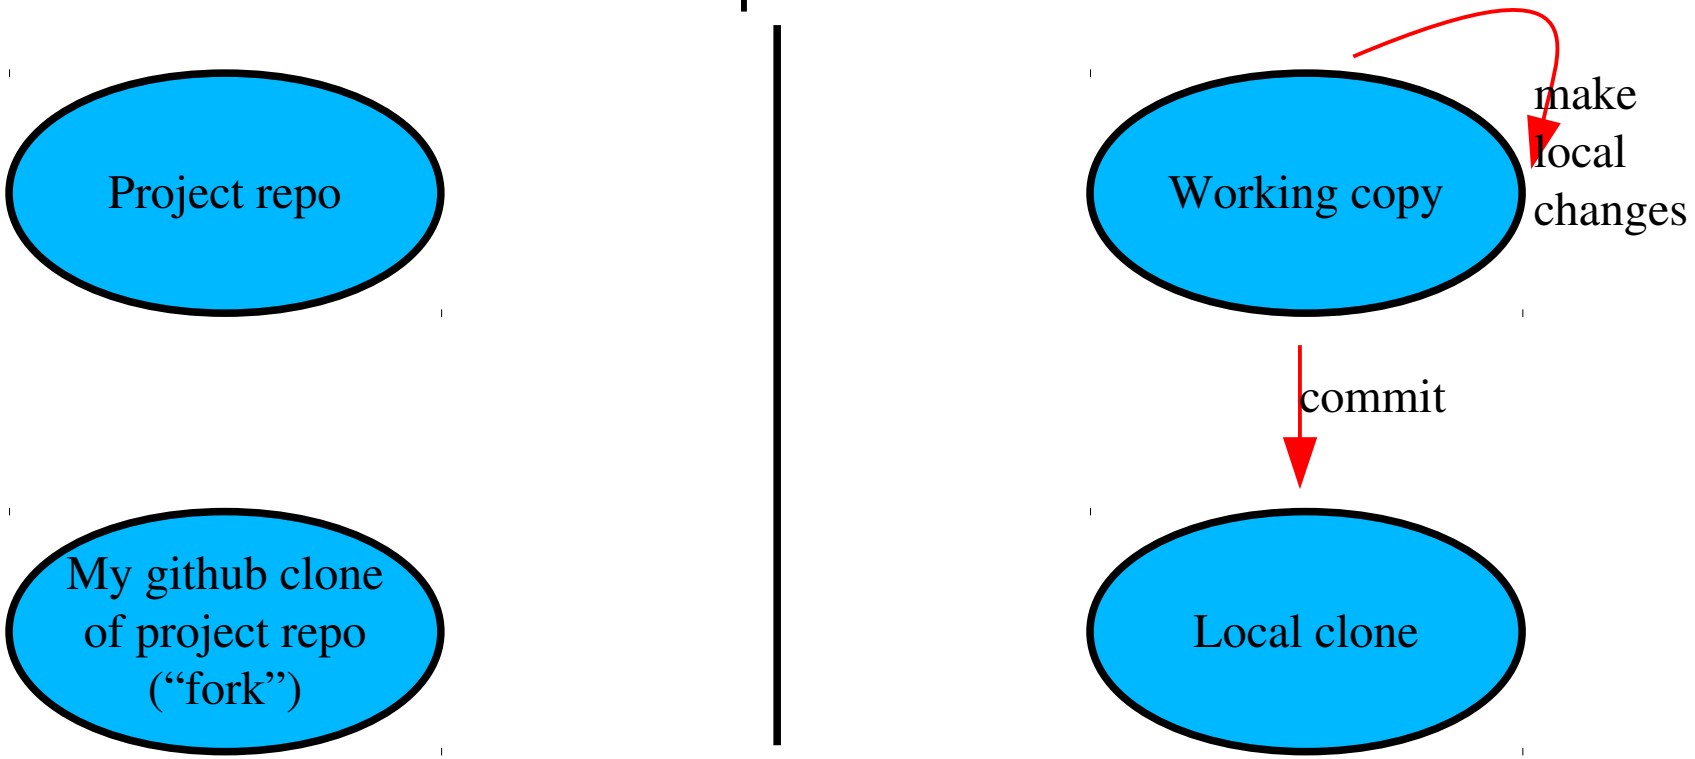
Github

Typical workflow: Making changes, committing, moving them upstream



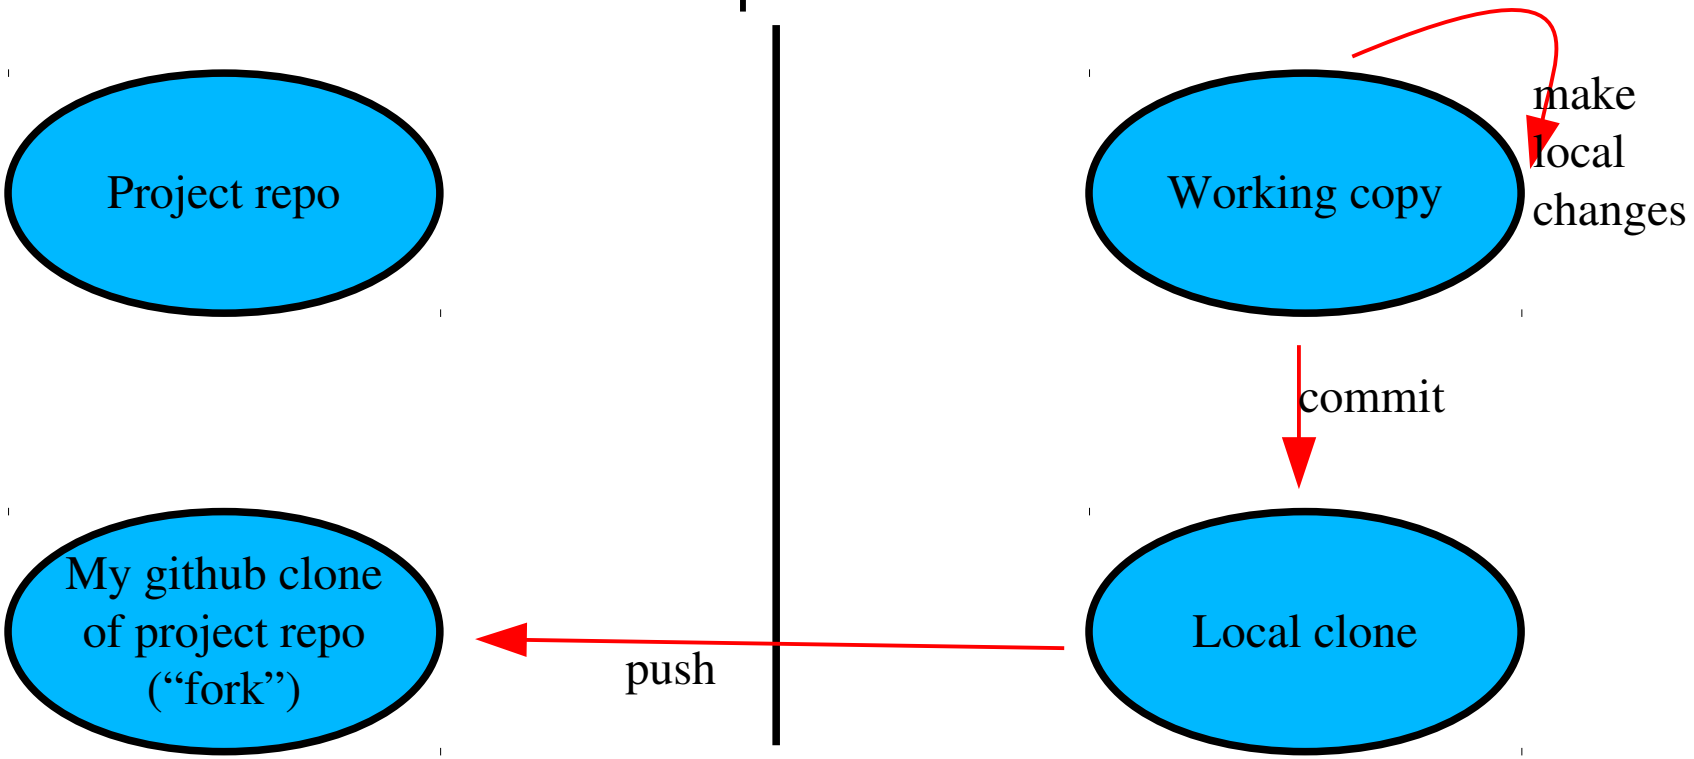
Github

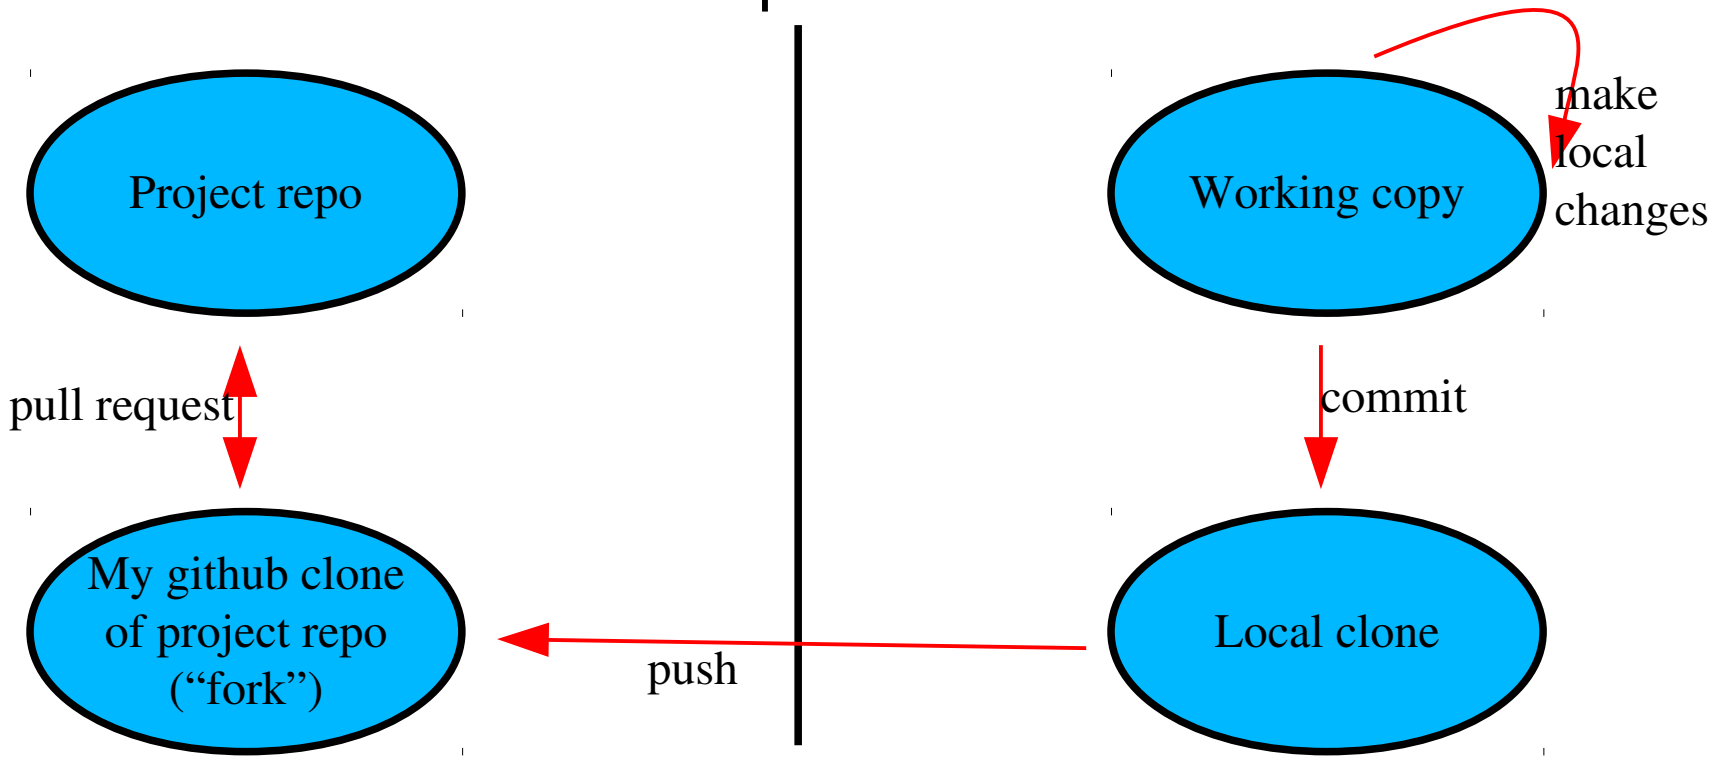
Typical workflow: Making changes, committing, moving them upstream



Github

Typical workflow: Making changes, committing, moving them upstream



Github


Typical workflow: Making changes, committing, moving them upstream